Summary

Imagine a life spent helping people access the joy and power of erotic energy, with the support of extensive training, professional associations, and clear guidelines for practice. This program, offered by the Institute for the Study of Somatic Sex Education (ISSSE) and endorsed by the Somatic Sex Educators Association (SSEA), teaches the professional practice of somatic sex education, and qualifies practitioners in this innovative healing and wholing modality.

Somatic sex educators help clients bring pleasure and aliveness into their erotic life and relationships. We work through body-based exercises and experiences that include somatic awareness, mindful masturbation, genital anatomy and mapping, sensual and erotic massage, and orgasm coaching. Through individual sessions, workshops, online coaching and ongoing groups, our clients can explore conscious breath, movement, and extended erotic touch in the container of safe professional relationship. They can practice feeling and expressing desires, and learning efficacy and empowerment in the erotic realm.

Through 5 core courses and 4 electives, you will learn to support diverse people on their unique journeys of reweaving sex and soul. You will understand how trauma becomes locked in the body, and how it can be carefully addressed through this work. Your studies will include interpersonal neurobiology and the neuroscience of brain and body in trauma healing. You will learn how to foster – and help others foster – a neurological allegiance to authentic pleasure. Loving presence and deeply embodied ethics are integral to the professional practice of somatic sex education. The program covers intake, assessment, empowering enthusiastic consent, ethics, boundaries, self and community care, erotic energy cultivation, working with ritual, and varieties of sensual and erotic massage. You will be mentored and supported in finding the intersection between your own work in the world and these teachings, and establishing a professional practice as a sex educator integrating this modality. You a professional training in somatic sex education and sexological bodywork

you will be mentored and supported in establishing a professional practice as a sex educator integrating this modality will learn to see, support and celebrate a wide diversity of sexual orientations and gender identities and expressions. You will study how trauma, neglect, oppressions and micro-aggressions are inscribed on our bodies and souls, and find ways to resist and unwind the dominant culture of sex.

This training was developed by the teaching team of Corinne Diachuk, Dr. Liam captain snowdon and Caffyn Jesse. It includes and expands upon the original course of studies for Certified Sexological Bodywork. (The Certified Sexological Bodywork program developed by Dr. Joseph Kramer has been offered in California since 2003, and is now taught around the world.)

Community of Practice Video Calls

All students have the opportunity to join a weekly online community call and circle of support on Thursdays, 9-10 am Pacific time (Vancouver). A member of the faculty facilitates these calls. Calls include presentations from teachers and advanced students, as well as other somatic sex education practitioners, plus time for you to share learning in small and large groups, and ask questions about the program. Attendance is optional.

Advanced students (Core Course 3 and beyond) have an option for additional support with a call every Tuesday morning at the same time.

BIPOC Mentorship Program

The Institute for the Study of Somatic Sex Education is pleased to offer all students who identify as BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, or Person of Colour), racialized, and/or mixed race an additional support on their SSE learning journeys. The BIPOC Mentorship Program is an emergent initiative launched in the summer of 2020 as a response to growing awareness in the field that financial scholarships are often not enough to ensure equitable access and transformative change. BIPOC learners often need and deserve dedicated learning spaces, leadership opportunities, and one on one support in order to thrive in the context of a racist and colonial society.

The BIPOC Mentorship Program consists of several components. Upon entering Core Course 1, BIPOC students will have access to mentorship calls with the BIPOC Faculty Liaison, in addition to the standard Faculty mentorship calls. Additionally, there is a closed Facebook group specifically for BIPOC students to share their experiences, resources, and questions. The BIPOC Mentorship Program includes twice-monthly BIPOC-only group mentorship calls. These calls are open to all mixed race and BIPOC identified students and take place on Zoom on the second and fourth Wednesday of every month. Students will receive links to join the calls through the Institute student email list. As a part of the Mentorship Program BIPOC-identified students also have the option of requesting that a BIPOC-identified Faculty Member serve as their Faculty Mentor for Core Course 1 and Core Course 3.

Unit 1: Basic Practices and Principles

This unit begins with readings and discussion on what somatic sex education is and how it works. You will learn about breath coaching, somatic awareness and erotic energy cultivation. You will be guided in somatic inquires into the impact of the social on the soma, with discussion of oppression, liberation and the body.

Unit 2: Mindful Erotic Practice

Unlocking sexual feeling in the body and opening to the ecstasy of conscious arousal is healing for individuals and for our world. This unit is focused on the development of your own mindful erotic practice. You will explore using breath, sound, movement, imagination and touch to cultivate your personal erotic energy.

Unit 3: Empowering Choice and Voice

Somatic sex educators actively create learning environments where clients are empowered to exercise their choice and voice. In this unit you will learn about barriers to empowerment in people we are touching, and how to integrate components of intake, assessment and client-directed touch in a somatic sex education session.

Unit 4: Genital Anatomy and Mapping

This unit focuses on genital development, homology and anatomy. The wide diversity of genital structures and changes with engorgement and arousal are explained. Information about little-known aspects of internal and external genital anatomy, genital scars, the science of expanded sexual response, and the nerves and processes involved in arousal and orgasm help us understand and support people on their diverse arousal journeys.

Unit 5: Loving Justice

Embodied ethics and embodied conflict resolution skills are essential to the practice of somatic sex education. This unit introduces you to Loving Justice, a somatic approach to Transformative Justice and conflict mediation developed by SSE and Institute Faculty member Kai Cheng Thom.

Unit 6: Conclusion and envisioning

In this unit you will have a chance to deepen your focus on the readings and somatic learnings that particularly interest you. Receive guidance and talk about your goals with a faculty member, and consider how and whether you want to proceed with the study of somatic sex education.

Core Course # 2: Intensive

Erotic Practice for Somatic Sex Education

In-person or Online

Course Textbooks: (must be purchased separately)

You will be required to purchase and review two textbooks before the Intensive. The list of textbooks from which to choose will be provided upon registration for the course.

In-person option: 7 days in Victoria, British Columbia, Canada or Seattle, WA, USA

$2295 USD (includes 5% GST)

First day: 11am to 6pm, Pacific Time; subsequent days 10 am to 6 pm (with an afternoon of repose mid-week)

Online option: 10 days of study and practice online

$2095 USD (includes 5% GST)

9 am to 2 pm, Pacific Time, Monday through Friday (with the weekend off in between)

This is the first of two intensives in a professional training for somatic sex educators. Whether you are attending online or in-person, you will be working with a cohort of students, two main faculty, plus guest teachers. Prepare for an intensive learning experience.

Our own erotic well-being is foundational for developing a professional practice as a somatic sex educator. During this week together we have a chance to unfold and share the personal and cultural journey to sexual wholeness. The intensive takes us through an arc of exercises and experiences in a way that mirrors the journey of a client working with a somatic sex educator, while resourcing us for professional practice.

We will begin with creating a “safe enough” container. This involves setting community agreements and honing and sharing our intentions. Study and embodied exercises help with understanding barriers to pleasure. We will learn and use actual practices, tools and competencies for empowering our own and others’ choice and voice.

Students will expand their embodied understanding of social locationality and sexual rights and freedoms. They will learn about how we somatize oppression and privilege, and practice technologies for unwinding some of these bonds.

We will work to create intentional, professional, erotic learning space. We practice using procedures that demonstrate professionalism, including intake and assessment. We discuss and offer diverse frameworks for ethical somatic sex education.

We cultivate capacity to feel and communicate body sensations as we increase our somatic literacy, developing a repertoire of embodiment practices we can use and share with clients.

The course includes a deeper dive into the science of somatic sex education and interpersonal neurobiology. The science of sexual happiness helps give language to the learning process, so we understand challenges and opportunities for expanded wellness. Knowing and sharing the science can help take shame away as we work with clients, and support each person in working and playing in their personal learning zone.

The intensive includes teaching in the somatic sex education core tool of Masturbation Coaching. We have an opportunity to explore the possibility of communal Mindful Erotic Practice, always within our personal learning zones.

We will have a chance to further explore genital anatomy and practice Genital Mapping. We will introduce the core tools of Affirmative Ritual Touch and Erotic Massage, while demonstrating how these tools can be integrated into somatic sex education sessions, whether offered in-person or online. All activities are done through the lens of empowering choice and voice.

This 7 or 10 day intensive (depending on whether it is done in-person or online) will focus on building core competencies of somatic sex education.

Welcome and Orientation

We welcome you to this course with readings and videos discussing the basic principles of sex coaching: what it is, how we do it, and the skills and approaches we need to practice in this profession.

Unit 1: Orgasmic Yoga

This unit the focus is on Orgasmic Yoga. Profound embodied learning takes place with mindful self-pleasure practice. Conscious repetition is how humans learn; thus the yoga model of education is central for learning sex. Most of your learning and expanding your erotic capacities will happen through your own embodied practice. New developments in neuroscience have furthered our understanding of the central importance of mindful erotic practice in somatic sex education.

Unit 2: Working with Trauma

Staci Haines says that recovering from sexual trauma involves completing and transitioning out of the automatic responses that trauma can leave behind in the body. “Finding pleasure on purpose” is central to healing. Her approach to somatic healing from sexual abuse is taught in this unit.

Additional readings are from clients who have experienced healing from somatic sex education, and practitioners Caffyn Jesse and Christiane Pelmas, who have trauma healing as a focus of their practice.

Unit 3: Erotic Touch and Erotic Ritual

Erotic touch is perhaps the most controversial, and yet the most important, aspect of the bodywork practices offered by somatic sex educators. This week we learn about the science behind the practice. We learn about technologies for creating erotic rituals that are appropriate to the level of empowerment and vulnerability we assess in our clients.

Erotic touch is perhaps the most controversial, and yet the most important, aspect of the bodywork practices offered by somatic sex educators.

Unit 4: Active Receiving

Moving while receiving erotic touch, plus communicating with empowered choice and voice, can be a radical departure from habitual ways of experiencing the erotic. This unit includes a discussion of “Erotic Massage Dancing.” Students learn how shame can manifest as distractions that take us out of the present moment, and how to support people in staying present with pleasure.

Unit 5: Loving Justice

In this unit you will be invited to deepen your familiarity with the Loving Justice embodied conflict skills introduced in CC1 and CC2. This module is about applying Loving Justice and Transformative Justice to your own erotic life and practice and to support you in finding your own way into embodied accountability and response-ability.

Unit 6: Anal Mapping and Massage

This week we focus on anal pleasure, anal anatomy, sexual shame and the anal taboo. The anal area is one of the most nerve-rich pleasure centers of the body, and is crucial for full and deep embodiment. Attention is given to how, in exploring the contours of the body, we are also exploring the contours of the psyche, the soul.

Unit 7: Pelvic Pain, Scar Tissue and Genital De-Armouring

Scar tissue impairs genital sensation for many people. Massage on the scar tissue can bring back sensation. Sessions focused on “genital de-armouring” help clients to connect with sensation and emotions that are held in the tissues of the pelvis.

Unit 8: Ecstatic Erotic Massage

This unit discusses how we can guide our clients in accessing and making use of erotic trance. Ecstatic erotic massage engages the biochemistry of ecstasy. We discuss how ecstatic erotic massage can be crafted to be safe-enough for survivors of sexualized violence.

Unit 9: Developing your Unique Contribution as a Sex Education Practitioner

Informed by the learning of the past 8 units, students feel into their unique offering.

“Given all the learnings you bring to this work, your personal values, your sense of what the world needs from you, and your vision of your future, consider your gift to the world. Move into a space of creative contribution to the field of somatic sex education, and make a plan for your practice”.

Readings and video viewing on business practices, envisioning your business, and marketing for somatic sex educators.

Core Course # 4: Intensive
